About Myself and My Family:

Hi, my name is Erica. I am a stay-at-home mother to boy/girl twins. While I am single, I am not a single parent—my children have a very active and involved father, and we work together to co-parent in the best way possible for them.

I love doing activities with my children and am always taking them to new places to explore, especially trying new places to eat—because kids love food! I am a strong advocate for children with disabilities, as my son is autistic. I am very hands-on and continuously working to support his needs while also growing and learning as a parent.

I am very engaged in my children's lives and enjoy being involved in everything they do. We also have a large, close-knit family, and we spend a lot of time attending family gatherings and events together. In addition to being a stay-at-home mom, I also have side jobs in hair braiding and microblading, which I enjoy pursuing while balancing time with my children.
